Roanoke, Texas (September 29, 2025) - JSfirm.com is pleased to announce a new Job Distribution Partnership with King Schools, a globally recognized provider of pilot training courses and aviation education. This new partnership is designed to highlight career opportunities in Pilot Fixed-Wing Jobs as well as other professional aviation roles.

For decades, King Schools has helped pilots at every stage of their journey through engaging, practical training programs. By joining forces with JSfirm.com, King Schools students and graduates will now gain increased exposure to the aviation job market, with direct visibility into thousands of available jobs across the industry, all accessible from their website.

“Working with King Schools is exciting because it strengthens the link between pilot training and the industry’s shortage of aviation professionals,” said Abbey Hutter, Executive Director of JSfirm.com. “We’re thrilled to work alongside such a respected training provider to ensure their students and alumni have access to Pilot Fixed-Wing and other aviation job openings worldwide.”

“We are happy to now provide access to the JSfirm.com database of aviation jobs on our websites. We want to help our customers connect the skills they learned with King Schools with opportunities from employers. This new partnership accomplishes that,” said John Dowd, Vice President, Marketing of King Schools.
